The wonderful musical prodigy, Blind Tom, will commence a two nights' engagement at Staub's Opera house next Monday night. The New Orleans Picayune, of a recent date, has this to say of him :

This strangely gifted negro boy had a large audience at Grunewald Hall yesterday afternoon. It is likely that he will appear again in New Orleans in the course of a few weeks. The spectacle of an oddity, or an eccentricity, in many of the relations of life, is not ordinarily surprising to the world. They pass before us in numerous shapes and forms, and such is the frequency and variety of their recurrence that mankind rarely turns its head to take a second look. But here is a profound psychological mystery, whose depth lies far below the plummet of speculation. Born a slave, de-prived before birth of the power of vision, border-land between intelligence and non-responsibility-that narrow horrizon which ms destined to be forever illuminated cal miracle. God, in His inscrutal musical miracie. God, in wisdom, denied him sight. He saw fit likewise to limit the range of his faculties but compensate the poor blind negro boy dowed him with the genius of art, so filled his soul with melody, that there is hardly a man in the wide world, whatever his ap i tude or training, who excels him in command of his instrument. His range of themes is great. Whether it is a conata of Beethoven or a wild African plantation bymn, the divine inspiration of Tom finds utterance and expression—at one moment beguiling the listener into a dreamy ecstacy, again listing him into a species of sympascribe Tom, or the effects of his music.
